ASHLEY HOLT (POLDO)

Vocals & percussion

Poldo joined E.R.E. United on a free transfer from Warhorse Rovers in November 1973. A skillful player at the back (he votes Liberal), Ash has been known to thrust forward on many occasions. He made his debut for the club at the Royal Festival Hall Ground, playing centre forward in the Journey to the Centre of the Earth Challenge Cup Final, scoring twice, once from the penalty spot, and once in the dressing room, before being sent off.

ROGER NEWELL (BUDGIE)

Bass & vocals

Budgie joined E.R.E. United from Thorn Television Athletic around the same time as Ashley for a substantial fee, all of which went into Roger's wallet, and has stayed there ever since. Budgie has often been mistaken for a corner flag, which contributes to his skill at dogging around defences, goalkeepers, and buying rounds of drinks.

JOHN DUNSTERVILLE (DUSTY)

Guitars & vocals (and thinks percussion)

A close season signing from Scattly Band Wednesday, Dusty has made his mark in superb midfield sweeping (His main job in the band being hoovering the stage after concerts). His favourite players include Bobby Moore (Fulham), Steve Perryman (Spurs), Iris Titwobbler (The Allied Breweries Nude Ladies 'B' Team) and Rolf Harris, who he modelled his face on. However, don't let his resemblance to a garden gnome fool you, as he is a fine guitarist when he puts his fishing rod down.

TONY FERNANDEZ (WOPPO)

Drums & percussion

Another close season signing, this time from Ross Rovers. Previous to that, Woppo had a lot of experience with the Infants team at the Tonibell Ice Cream Factory, and Iris Titwobbler (The Allied Breweries Nude Ladies 'B' Team). A disappointing header of the ball, as he tends to poke the opponents' eyes out with his nose.

REG BROOKS (STEPTOE)

Brass & vocals

Reg joined us after a very long and distinguished career, the highlight of which was his heroic display in the Oxfam Clothing and Junkyard Charity Shield Final, where he failed to get a Winners medal, but was awarded the best dressed prize. Reg says he hopes to retire in a season or two, a time that musicians and lovers of good music eagerly await.

MARTIN SHIELDS (FARTIN' MARTIN)

Brass & vocals

It has been said that when Martin takes field he goes like the wind. It also smells like the wind. A former baseball player, he was forced to quit because his pitching was so bad, an attribute matched only by his singing. Martin gets very scared before the big occasion, his wife tells us, as she has to wash his underpants after concerts. We hope he does well today or the world might fall out of his bottom.

THE CAPTAIN FOR TONIGHTS GAME

Many reasons have been put forward as to why Rick Wakeman should be captain of the team, such as . . . a devastating player . . . superb skill . . . an example to young players everywhere . . . and so on and so on, but the true reason must now be revealed . . . it's his ball.

A tall, strikingly handsome man (Rick wrote this bit), he struts around in his cape, introducing the band to new friends wherever they play. In fact, Ashley was once heard to say . . . 'Any friend of Batman is a friend of mine'. A lovable character, he often has to put up with the band changing some of his lyrics . . . examples being . . .

'Gone are the days of the Knights . . .
Gone are my panties and tights.
The frightening Mount Etna . . .
The frightening Aunt Edna.
and, of course, by now world famous, the ruination of that classic verse from The Battle in Journey to the Centre of the Earth . . .
'Five days long in the lavatory,
Tried to shit, but could not wee
And the surface of his underpants was indicating some disturbance'.

Rick says he doesn't mind too much when Ashley sings the naughty words on stage, as little things please little minds, and, according to Ashley's lovely wife (The Duchess of Chesham Bois), it is very little. Anyway, returning to tonight's game, Rick will appear resplendent in cape, silk shirt, white shoes and a pair of dirty underpants, which he tells us is to stop the stains showing when he plays a wrong note, although the band say he never plays a wrong note, handfuls of them, yes, but a single wrong note, never.

Many people have asked who Rick models his playing on; well, his main influences have been Mrs. Pills, Rough Conway, Simplini, and, of course, the great master of them all, Reg Varnish, who also took singing lessons from Deaf O'Connor.

He has many pets, which include two pet moths (which live in his wallet), and a bottle of Port, which follows him everywhere. Rick started his career on the groundstaff of a RankBand and they were, so it wasn't too long before a young scout name of Dave Cousins spotted him in a pub. Dave says of him . . . 'When I saw this lanky streak of piss, paralytic on the floor, singing the theme from Opportunity Knocks, I immediately thought to myself . . . 'What a piss head', and signed him to my team Strawbs Athletic, or as they were later known, Strawbs Paralytic.

During a successful cup run (they had broken most of the beer mugs), Rick was spotted by Chris Squire of Yessington Forest, who were at the time managed by that well known man . . . Brian 'Clough' Lane. Well, Brian took Rick into his office, opened his mouth, and Rick fell in. Rick stayed for three years, which included the Cup and League double, winning the WBBa Cup (Where's Brian's Bank Account), and twenty four wrecked keyboards.

Then he decided to form his own team, which you see before you tonight. So, remembering the immortal words of Linda Lovelace . . . 'One swallow doesn't make a summer' . . . sit back and enjoy yourselves, because I can assure you, Rick and the English Rock Ensemble will.

AND NOW A LOOK AT WHAT GOES ON BEHIND THE SCENES

MANAGEMENT

BRIAN LANE & ALEX SCOTT

At some time or another, Brian and Alex have done most of the big bands, as well as managed them. Brian describes himself as skillful, tactical, a player's player, an attacking man, and a lover of solid defence. Each of these statements can be defined as follows:

SKILLFUL . . . at avoiding paying Rick and E.R.E. money.

TACTICAL . . . when cornered, passes directly to Alex Scott.

A PLAYER'S PLAYER . . . wants the same money as Rick.

ATTACKING PLAY . . . always asks for huge amounts of money.

SOLID DEFENCE . . . after collecting it . . . keeps it.

A & M TOWN

A good solid team who have been steadily climbing the League table since signing Derek Green from Rondor Rovers. Derek's addition to the squad has turned them into one of the tightest outfits going, as my last Royalty statement shows. Included in the squad are players of the calibre of Terry O'Neil, who has been substitute all season, mainly because he doesn't show up until the match has nearly finished, and Fabio Nicoli, who's latest book on coaching . . . 'ASA NEWT' is a best seller. They have been known to play dirty, which is why at the time of writing they are trying to sign Iris Titwobbler from The Allied Breweries Nude Ladies 'B' Team.

BRIAN LANE LEAVING AFTER NEGOTIATING THE BAND'S WAGES

ROAD CREW ROVERS

The Rovers had a disappointing season last year, mainly due to their manager (John Cleary) insisting on them continuing their education in case they didn't last too long in the game. Subsequently, their key men were missing most of the season taking the 11 Plus (The results of which are printed below). A scruffy, loose team, completely lacking in morale and morals, they often frighten the opposition with dirty tactics, dirty clothes, and their only attribute . . . ugliness.

EVERY ROADIE CARRIES A GOVERNMENT HEALTH WARNING

THE COACHING STAFF

FRED RANDALL . . . A founder member of the staff, it has been rumoured that Fred has been approached by Don Revie to advise the England squad on the breathaliser, and how to fail it only fifteen minutes after the pubs have opened.

MIKE LEGERWOOD . . . Mike has religiously coached Rick and all the lads in the finer points of public relations, such as avoiding searching questions, arriving late for interviews, slugging one paper off to another, crawling, and lying.

TONY MERRELL . . . Tony has the soul destroying job of keeping the equipment in order, and trying to get Rick to turn it down. Known round the ground as 'Dad', which judging from stories we have heard could, in some cases, be closer to the truth than we earlier imagined.

TRANSFER NEWS

Martin Shields has been transferred to the back of the team coach because he smells.

The money from tonight's game has been transferred to Brian Lane's bank account.

Ashley Holt has been transferred to a double bed, as he is getting so bloody fat.

SOUVENIRS

Unfortunately, Brian Lane's free gift book is still unobtainable, as is Brian Lane.

SUPPORTERS CLUB NEWS

'Hello Fans,'

We welcome you today to another stiff match in which we hope E.R.E. United get another two points in their promotion bid. I'm sure you will cheer the lads along as they trot out onto the pitch in their familiar beer stained shirts and brown shorts, as they face some really stiff opposition tonight in the local council, jobsworths, and lovers of good music.

The Hall for tonight's game has been kindly donated by Harvey Goldsmith who is hoping for a big gate, as he and Brian take most of the money.

- (c) Please go away

THE ANSWERS TO LAST WEEKS COMPETITION

For those of you who took part, you'll remember that you had to complete the following song titles:

1. I've got a lovely bunch of . . .

The correct answer was of course COCONUTS, and not as one of our contestants, Ivor Hugewun, suggested.

2. There's a bright golden haze on the . . .

The correct answer was MEADOW, and not as was suggested by a Mrs. M. Shields of Wycombe, although I'm sure bleach will get the stains out of your sheets.

3. It's a long way to . . .

The answer here was TIPPERARY, although we thank Linda Lovelace for her interesting suggestion.

4. I've grown accustomed to her . . .

The answer here was FACE, although a lot of the entries covered more specific areas of the body.

5. I wanna hold your . . .

The answer was of course HAND, although I shall be personally visiting Iris Titwobler of East Grinstead to discuss her suggestion.

6. Catch a falling . . .

The answer was STAR, which most of you got right, although we do hope Mr. X of Windsor that your truss is now fitting better.

7. I'm gonna sit right down and . . .

The answer was WRITE MYSELF A LETTER. However, we sincerely hope that Mrs. Fawcett from Cheam recovers from her constipation very soon.

8. A little white . . .

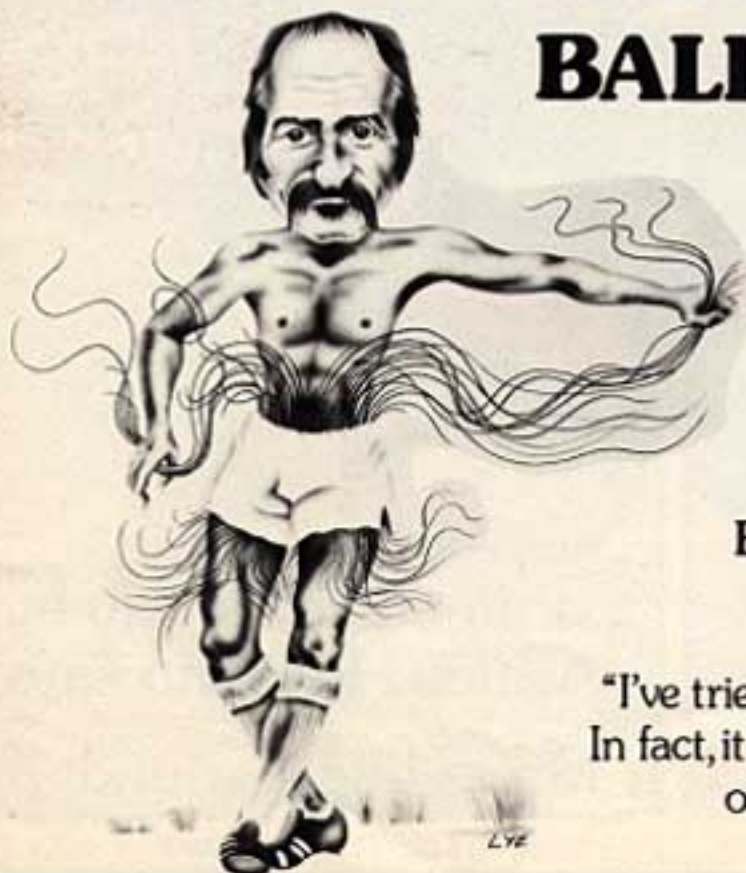

The answer was BULL, although we did accept a lot of answers from Eskimos that had a slight spelling discrepancy.

9. Up, up and . . .

The answer was AWAY, although the answer given by John Dunsterville obviously accounts for the way he walks.

10. All I have is . . .

The answer is YOURS, but for the benefit of Mr. Tony Fernandez we have now changed to the metric system so your answer could not be accepted.

POETRY CORNER

Martin plays difficult parts,
On trumpet he stops and he starts.
But it really is Hell
When up wafts a smell
Like forty six elephants farts.

Now Woppo likes good English pros.
Quite often he comes and he goes.
But they always complain
When he goes back again
That it's not the same size as his nose.

Now Roger won't get in a fight,
But there is just one case where he might.
If the burglar . . . Alf Grollet
Had the key to his wallet,
He couldn't keep on being tight.

Ashley Holt is really a ligger,
He eats with a mechanical digger.
His clothes now don't fit,
But one little bit,
Just don't seem to get any bigger.

Now Reg is beyond comprehension,
Money is his real intention.
Friday's the day,
When after we play,
He nips down to Slough for his pension.

It's sad about Dusty, I fear,
That when he takes you out for a beer,
He grabs hold of your hand,
And then tickles your gland,
I find this a little bit queer.

Brian Lane all the money is purging,
With the Westminster Bank he is merging.
He says, "Nothing for you"
Like a typical Jew,
He's as tight as an ant that's a virgin.
